50X1-HUM

1. Several auxiliary airfields were recently established at Ajdovscina, Vipava, Radovljica, Postojna and Divaca, in territory under the jurisdiction of the Fourth Army. These airfields have no permanent garrisons or permanent installations, but they do have light planes which are frequently used for training purposes. The locations of the airfields are listed as follows:
 - a. Auxiliary airfield at Ajdovscina: situated 45° 53' 25" N, 13° 53' 30" E.
 - b. Auxiliary airfield at Vipava: situated 45° 41' 55" N, 13° 57' 25" E, south of the town of Vipava. It is about one kilometer long and 600 meters wide and devoid of any installations.
 - c. Auxiliary airfield at Postojna: situated in a field east of Divaca, and between the Divaca-Sv. Peter railroad and the road leading from Divaca to Ilirska Bistrica.
2. The Lesce-Bled airport is located east of the Lesce-Bled railroad station, between the Lesce-Radovljica railroad and the Bled-Ljubljana highway, just below Stol mountain. The field was turned over to the Yugoslav Aviation Association (Yugoslovenski Vazduhoplovni Savez) by the Yugoslav Air Force. It formerly had three concrete runways and three underground hangars.
